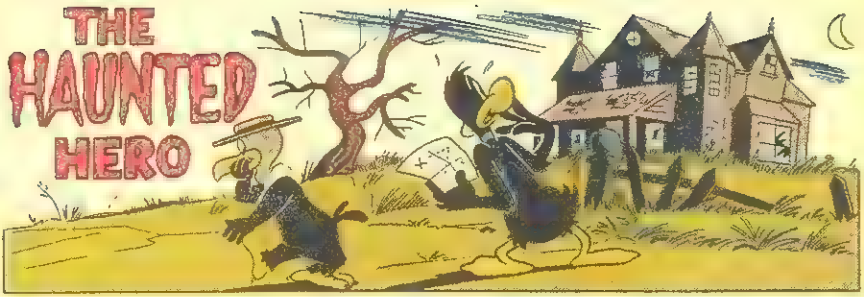
THE HAUNTED HERO



Beaky Buzzard could hardly contain himself when he saw Daffy Duck skid to a stop on his way down the street and pick up a big piece of paper.

"He's falling for my buried treasure map," Beaky chortled to himself. "He doesn't know it's going to lead him right into the haunted house down the road!"

Beaky was convulsed by his own cleverness. "Here's one time I put one over on Daffy for sure. Yuk, yuk!"

Daffy's eyes widened as he read the map. "Woo, woo!" he shrieked, jumping from the ground and clicking his heels in mid-air. "I'm going to be rich!" He waved the map excitedly as he galloped towards his friend.

"Buried treasure, Beaky!" he shouted. "Want to come with me while I collect? I might even split with you!"

"I'll come part way," Beaky said, "but you don't have to split with me. The treasure's all yours." Then Beaky grinned to himself and thought, "He can keep all the cobwebs he finds!"

As the two friends started down the road, they bumped smack into Sheriff Katchum.

"You boys see any strangers around here?" the sheriff asked. As the boys shook their heads, he added, "Well, keep your eyes open. We're looking for the man who robbed the village bank!"

"Gosh," Daffy murmured as the sheriff continued on his way, "it's sort of scary, isn't it?"

He did not realize immediately that they were standing right in front of the haunted house. A big yellow moon cast eerie shadows on the rickety structure.

"Well, good luck with your treasure," Beaky grinned. "This is as far as I go!"

"W-Wait just a cotton-pickin' minute," Daffy gasped when he saw where he was. But Beaky waved gaily and skipped away.

Daffy's hand shook as he pushed open the creaky door. It was very dark inside. Curiously, a candle glowed in the far corner of the room. A big black bat stared at Daffy from his perch on a broken table. Just then, Daffy spied a canvas bag on the floor. Cautiously, he peered inside.

"The treasure," Daffy shrieked happily as he eyed the green bills. Then a hand fell heavily on his shoulder.

"Oh, Beaky," Daffy sighed with relief. "I'm so glad you came back!"

"I'm not Beaky," a low voice growled.

Daffy reached his hand back cautiously and felt a long fold of material. His teeth began to chatter. "Gh-Ghosts are k-kindergarten stuff," he protested.

Then he wheeled around and saw a white-clad figure. "Oh, my," Daffy yelled, "I don't feel too well!" He jumped, but the "ghost" brought him down to the floor.

While they were scuffling, the front door burst open and the sheriff raced into the room. He flung himself on the white-clad figure, and, in moments, had handcuffs on him.

"Thanks, Daffy," Sheriff Katchum said. "We were coming to search here anyway, but it looks like you'll collect a reward for catching the robber first."

Daffy's teeth were still chattering. "Th-That's nice," he said. Then his eyes widened happily. "Did you say reward?" He clicked his heels in mid-air and yelled happily, "Hooray! Hooray!"

Beaky Buzzard stuck his head in the door and took in the scene unhappily. "When it comes to tricking Daffy," he muttered, "I haven't a ghost of a chance!"

DEPARTMENT OF THE AIR FORCE
WASHINGTON

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

February 12, 1959

Dear Mr. Hough:

I have received the information regarding the production of the "Rocket Club" film by your company. We are happy to have such enthusiastic support in our quest to properly guide the interests of young amateur rocket aspirants.

As has been your primary interest over the years in the development of safe air rifles for the youngsters of America, so are we vitally concerned over the safety of our youth in their varied experimentations in the rocket and missile age.

It appears that, in your film, you have accomplished these aims adequately and are providing the proper guidance for the safety considerations that must be applied to this program.

May we commend you for the public-spirited sponsorship of this project and your support of the national effort to encourage increased study of the sciences.

We firmly believe that we can respond most effectively to the responsibilities enjoined by alerting qualified youth, through such programs as these, to become interested in and seriously pursue careers in science or engineering.

We expect to use "Rocket Club" widely to inform youth and parents of America of the dangers inherent in unsupervised and uncontrolled experimentation with amateur rockets and other similar explosive devices.

Sincerely,

E. B. LeBAILLY
